The Quality Management system at the First Aid Industry Body (FAIB) holds ISO 9001 (2015) for the Approval and Monitoring of;

- First Aid Training Providers
- First Aid Trainers/Assessors

The Inspectors within the Health & Safety Executive (HSE), the Department for Education (DfE) and OFSTED accept the First Aid Industry Body (FAIB) First Aid certificates as EQUIVALENT to those certificates issued by an Awarding Body (under Ofqual/SQA) and certificates issued by the Voluntary Aided Societies (St John Ambulance, the British Red Cross and St Andrews Ambulance Association).

If you use FAIB Registered Training Providers which are listed (in Geographical areas) on the First Aid Industry Body website (www.faib.co.uk) then you are working with reputable Training Providers who use FAIB Registered Trainers/Assessors working to the Highest Standards in the First Aid Industry.

The FAIB Quality Assurance Systems and Due Diligence (which are required by every Registered Training Provider) will always meet the standards that Employers are required to have in order to satisfy your legal requirements for First Aid provision in the workplace.
